

Debt Rescue expands to meet growing demand

PERSONAL debt management company Debt Rescue has expanded its Noosa headquarters to meet growing demand.

The company, which operates a network of consultants and brokers Australia-wide, has tripled its office space and updated their technology in a major business upgrade that took effect a fortnight ago.

Operations manager Rachael Witton said since launching on the Sunshine Coast with two staff seven years ago, Debt Rescue had grown its team to include people specialising in finding positive solutions to ease the financial worries of clients.

new technology and additional offices to meet further projected growth over the next three to six months.

“With 68% of Australian households currently facing some form of debt stress, it is clearly a very real problem which effects people’s health, emotional wellbeing and relationships,” Ms Witton said.
